Crop-Prop Issue Is Re-Raised

By Truman's Plea For New Farm Laws

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The question of government subsidies for farm crops became a possible national issue today as President Truman called on congress again to revise the agricultural aid laws.

In his message on the state of the union, the chief executive said improvements are needed in farm laws to help obtain the kinds of farm products needed for the defense effort.

Officials have said that more meats, dairy and poultry products, fruits, vegetables, wool and cotton are required.

Brannan Plan Key.
Mr. Truman did not go into details, but some farm state legislators interpreted his statement to indicate that the administration would seek authority to use subsidies to support farm prices and to encourage greater production of essential foods.

Subsidy payments are a key part of a controversial farm plan advocated by Secretary of Agriculture Brannan, but sharply opposed by most major farm organizations, republicans and some democrats.

Rep. Hope (R-Kas), ranking republican member of the house agriculture committee, said Mr. Truman's message indicated he would like to use subsidies to encourage production of farm products in the face of price ceilings.

Co-Operation Pledged.
Hope said he opposed subsidies of this kind.

Rep. Cooley (D-NC), chairman of the committee, commented: "In the agricultural act of 1949 the congress gave the secretary of agriculture broad authority to bring about increased production of any agricultural commodities which may be needed in the interest of national security. It is not clear to me just what improvement of this authority the president has in mind. He may be assured that the house committee on agriculture will co-operate in every way in the effort to provide such expansion of this authority as the president believes to be necessary to bring about production of all vital foods and fibers."

While A City Sleeps 'Jim the Sleuth' Rides With Cruiser Officers

BY JIM COUFAL (Star Staff Writer.)

Two cruiser officers climbed to the second floor of a shabby apartment at 2 a. m. Saturday. From habit, they stood aside from the door as they said, "This is the police, John, we'd like to talk to you."

John was the younger brother of a convict in the state penitentiary. In an Iowa holdup he had shot a cop, and the younger brother was also known to carry a gun.

The officers questioned him about the alibi of a suspected purse-snatcher who had been picked up earlier that evening.

Some of the answers they got, the officers knew were lies, some they suspected—all of them came from a cop-hating young tough.

It was routine for Crusier Officers Bob Sawdon and Charles Wert, part of the 11:30 to 8 a. m. police shift that patrols the city while Lincoln sleeps.

Plenty of Variety
But "routine" to them meant break-ins, fights, drunks, domestic trouble, car accidents, the continual inspection of property against burglary, and many of the other dramas, unfortunate or illegal, that humanity falls heir to.

To chronicle the happenings on the long, lonely pull from midnight till dawn, the Lincoln Star sent a reporter-photographer to ride in a cruiser with Sawdon and Wert.

At 11:20 p. m. they, with the 24 other policemen on the third shift, formed in the station's assembly room for "show-up" where jail inmates shuffle

In the west, Osan, almost 60 miles south of the 38th parallel and 28 miles below Seoul, was given up without a fight. It is on the old "Heartbreak highway" down which Americans and South Koreans first retreated before the North Korean invaders last July.

In the east, United Nations troops quit the burning road and rail hub of Wonju after a valiant delaying action that brought time for preparation of defenses farther south.

More than 1,750 reds were estimated killed, wounded or captured in ground actions and air strikes Monday.

REDS JAM ROADS.
Pilots reported the roads south and southeast of Seoul and north of Wonju were jammed with reds pursued the Eighth army southward.

While B-29 Superforts concentrated on the Seoul area, smashing the runways of Kimpo airfield with bombs, jets and piston-engined fighters and light bombers swooped on troop concentrations near the Han river.

One 20-mile stretch of road north of Wonju was transformed into a death-trap for the reds. Maj. Gen. Earle E. Partridge, U. S. Fifth air force commander, said jet planes alone inflicted more than 1,000 casualties on the reds.

Allied warships on both west and east coasts also fought to delay the red hordes. The American cruiser Rochester and the British cruisers Kenya and Ceylon bombarded Incheon, Seoul's port, for the fourth straight day.

U.N. WARSHIPS ACTIVE.
On the east coast four American destroyers and two Siamese corvettes shelled road and rail links for a distance of 60 miles north of the 38th parallel.

General MacArthur was using his marked superiority in the air and on the sea to give some breathing space to his heavily outnumbered ground forces.

Associated Press Correspondent John Randolph, following the retreating U. N. columns in the west, said Chinese troops entered Osan shortly after the rear-guard pulled out Monday morning. The first American troops killed in action in Korea fell at Osan six months ago.

H. S. Dillon Named High Twelve Head

Hugh S. Dillon was unanimously elected president of High Twelve club at their meeting Monday at the Cornhusker. Installation of officers will be held at a night meeting Jan. 22 following a dinner at Hotel Lincoln. Wives will be invited.

Other officers unanimously elected were: John Lee Wilbur, jr., first vice-president; H. Clayton Zellers, second vice-president; Dr. Philip T. Smith, retiring president; international representatives; Robert Littrell, secretary-treasurer; and Frank Beers, sergeant-at-arms.

Directors elected are C. L. Clark and J. Lloyd McMaster, one year; Warren Dalton and Glenn K. Deter, two years; and J. Cecil Way and John Binning, three years.

Vandenberg Makes A Co-operation Plea

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich.—(AP)—Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg (r., Mich.), champion of a bi-partisan foreign policy, declared Monday night "both congress and the president himself should prayerfully co-operate in his plea for essential unity."

Senator Vandenberg, who is a patient at Butterworth hospital here, was asked to comment on foreign policy implications of President Truman's state of the union message. He said he was not in a position to discuss details.

Vandenberg, who has undergone two major operations in the last 15 months, has been in the hospital here since mid-November. A hospital attendant Sunday said his condition was about the same.

Senators Ask Slowing Defense Bills

Hearing Will Be Asked On Guard

The "amber" light is being readied for at least a part of Gov. Val Peterson's defense program.

Sen. John P. McKnight of Auburn who introduced L.B. 36 along with Senators Richard D. Marvel of Hastings and Hugh Carson of Ord, said Monday that he expects to ask to have the hearing continued on the bill which is now set for Friday. The measure provides authority for the governor to organize a state militia.

As requested by the governor the bill contains the emergency clause which would make it effective as soon as passed and signed by the chief executive.

Doesn't Want Rush.
"I don't think we should rush into these things until the provisions are thoroughly understood by the people," Senator McKnight said.

He explained that he plans to do further research on the operations of a home guard and that he expects to compile a brochure on his findings. In that way every member of the legislature will be thoroughly informed before voting, he said.

Senator McKnight gave his opinion that the legislation should be passed for the protection of the state.

'Freeze' Order Too Soon
The Auburn lawmaker said he was also of the opinion that the "freeze" order on building should not be rushed too fast. With the committee hearing on Friday it does not allow sufficient time to study the effects of such an act, he explained.

Senator McKnight said that L.B. 37 likewise should be continued to permit further study. It was introduced by Senators Karl E. Vogel of Omaha, Ray A. Babcock of Sidney and Glenn Cramer of Albion.

Chairman Vogel of the government committee set both bills for hearing on Friday.

Opposition, particularly to L.B. 37, the "freeze" on public housing, appears to be forming among some senators.

Truman's Economic Message Expected Late In The Week

WASHINGTON—(AP)—President Truman will send his economic message to congress late this week-end, probably Friday.

This was the word given reporters by Chairman Leon Keyserling and members of the council of economic advisors following a white house conference with the president Monday.

Mr. Truman discussed the lengthy economic review with the council. The economic message will be followed by the annual budget message Monday.

President To Seek Stiffer Curbs

By Sterling F. Green.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—President Truman will seek further wage, price and rent controls, he hinted to congress Monday, strike-control authority as well.

His economic stabilizer, Alan Valentine, also promised a "big try" to curb soaring meat prices—perhaps with the help of rationing and "probably subsidies."

To price-control some consumer goods, Valentine told U.S. News and World Report, "you'd almost have to ration, because that's the only way in which you could reduce the demands which would otherwise knock the ceiling off your controls."

Mr. Truman in his state of the union message to Congress said: "The arms program, will mean 'heavy cuts' in civilian use of essential materials and 'shortages' in various consumer goods."

Two of the key elements of his 10-point legislative program were a call for "revision and extension" of his authority to stabilize prices, wages and rents, and this significant demand:

Improvement of our labor laws to help provide stable labor-management relations and to make sure that we have steady production in the emergency."

This suggested that he soon will ask congress to create a labor dispute settling agency. As for price-wage revisions, legislators assumed Mr. Truman wants to plug some of the asserted loopholes in the defense production act. Among them are the law's limitations on the control of farm and food prices.

ESA now is weighing a 30-day, mandatory general freeze on price increases by business firms as a temporary measure during preparations for wage-price action.

But under the act, any permanent price control system could not freeze the producer's price of a farm product if the price is below parity (a pricing formula intended to assure the farmer a fair return).

Thus many farm food products would be free to rise for some time, carrying up the cost of living. Members of ESA's wage stabilization board have complained that it will be almost impossible to impose wage control until a firm lid is clamped on living costs.

Pusan A City of Heartbreak Filled With Weary Refugees

BY JACK MACBETH

PUSAN, Korea. (P). This dirty seaport town in southwestern Korea is suffering from an epidemic of heartbreak.

Pusan is bulging at its seams with human tragedy. Its civilian population has been swollen by refugees to 1,000,000—twice its pre-war size.

This is the last major Korean port remaining in the hands of the United Nations. Through it must flow all the seaborne personnel and supplies destined for the war front.

The real feeling of war and its meaning have been brought here by the refugees. There are some 500,000 of them, for whom the civilian government, with advice from the military, is trying to provide temporary shelter.

At one temporary camp about 600 refugees have constructed tents from straw mats. There are no sanitary facilities and no water supply. Fish bones and other garbage litter the ground.

Most of the men, women and children appear filthy; many have bad colds. All had empty stomachs of despair and heartbreak.

Along the streets, thousands of the refugees have built their own little shacks close against the sides of buildings or wall. Some of these are made from wood, obtained from cases marked "US army C ration."

Not all the refugees, however, are in such dire circumstances. Many who brought a little money with them are able to buy rice and vegetables. Others have moved in with friends or relatives living in Pusan.

State Aid To Education Is Given Support

... Of Supt. Burke

OMAHA—(AP)—Superintendent of Schools Harry A. Burke said Monday he favors a bill providing for state aid to education.

Dr. Burke told the Omaha Council of Parents and Teachers that the bill, scheduled to be introduced in the legislature this week, would provide both special assistance to districts not able to support their schools and pre-pupil-basis aid for all districts in the state.

Omaha, he said, would share only in the two-third portion which would be distributed evenly. One-third of amounts appropriated would go to "districts without financial ability to carry their own burdens."

Manpower Draft Increase Needed

Solemn Pledge Made That America Will Not Forsake Free Nations; Taxes To Go Higher

WASHINGTON. (AP). President Truman told the nation Monday that "we will fight, if fight we must" to block the threat of world conquest by Soviet Russia.

In a rousing 3,500-word speech, heard by millions over radio and television networks, the president called for a vast mobilization effort capable of producing 50,000 planes and 35,000 tanks a year if needed.

Solemnly, he pledged that the United States will forsake neither western Europe nor other free nations in the struggle against red aggression.

The president said more money, a "major" tax increase and a bigger draft of manpower will be needed to prepare for the possibility of "a full-scale war."

Addressing a joint session of congress in his annual "state of the union" message, Mr. Truman declared:

"We Are Preparing"
"We are preparing for full war-time mobilization, if that should be necessary."

"The threat of world conquest by Soviet Russia endangers our liberty and endangers the kind of world in which the free spirit of man can survive."

"The threat is a total threat and the danger is a common danger."

"All free nations are exposed and all in peril. Their only security lies in banding together. No one nation can find protection in a selfish search for a haven from the storm."

Mr. Truman bitterly denounced Russia for waging "an evil war by proxy" in Korea and called it a move by "the Russian communist dictatorship to take over the world step by step."

Willing To Negotiate
The president said the United States is willing "as we have always been, to negotiate honorable settlements with the soviet union" but with out-thrust jaw he declared:

"We will not engage in appeasement."
A burst of applause greeted that affirmation.

Mr. Truman went on to accuse the Soviets of keeping Russia and its satellite nations "in a state of perpetual mobilization," and he declared:

"The imperialism of the czars has been replaced by the even more ambitious, more crafty, and more menacing imperialism of the rulers of the Soviet Union."

"The Soviet rulers have made it clear that we must have strength as well as right on our side. If we build strength... the Soviet rulers may face the facts and lay aside their plans to take over the world."

"... That is what we are trying to bring about."

"That is the only realistic road to peace."

Mr. Truman warned the lawmakers that they must make "great decisions" in the months ahead to cope with the global crisis.

Specifically, he called for higher taxes—he did not mention how much higher—changes in the draft law, greater powers

Britain Likes HST Address

LONDON—Tuesday—(AP)—President Truman's state of the union address to congress was applauded generally by London newspapers as a clear guide to the future, which they said Europeans should heed. Only the communist Daily Worker lambasted Mr. Truman.

The Independent London Times said "no democratic leaders has set out so simply before the duty which now falls upon each and upon all. The connection between the United States and Europe is a partnership in self-help and self-defense. There is no question here of paymaster and pensioner or satellites x x x and the president has set a high standard."

EDITORIAL OPINION IS DIVIDED

(By The Associated Press)

The nation's press reacted quickly—but with divided opinions Monday to President Truman's message on the state of the union. Some newspapers called it a stirring message, others said it was disappointing.

Some editorials pointed out that steps to be taken in this crisis could not be too precise because of the threat of war and America's desire for peace.

Others said the state of the union was "well reported."

Some of the sternest critics said the president uttered patriotic generalities with which all Americans agree.

They complained Mr. Truman had failed to stir the people or give them a positive lead, and said that the nation wanted more of the facts.

The democratic Miami Daily News said that "telescoped into approximately 3,500 words, there was a stirring synthesis of the hopes and aspirations of 150,000,000 Americans in deadly peril. Their president understands them. If it was not hard oratory, it was a good summation of the nation's stake in the forthcoming struggle for survival."

The Indianapolis News (Independent Republican) said "President Truman's state of the union message was a disappointing document to an American people who had been waiting it for those specific marching orders to which they are entitled, for which they are ready in order to deal with the enormous peril to the nation."

Schoolmen Cautioned On Statism

'Choose Slavery Or Freedom,' Sorensen Warns

"Too many Americans have long forgotten the basic truth that every human being gets his fundamental rights from God—not from the state."

This was the statement of Carlyle A. Sorensen, industrial relations manager of Swift & Co. of Omaha, in a speech Monday night to members of the Nebraska State School Board association at the Cornhusker.

Sorensen pointed out that God created man in His own image. As civilization became more complex, Sorensen asserted, man then created state. And the chief purpose of the state, Sorensen said, is to assert the God-given rights of man as laid down in the Declaration of Independence.

Choice of Paths
"All of us want increasingly high standards," Sorensen remarked. "We want better living. How can we get it? You have the choice. On the one hand there is the rocky road of state slavery with its rosy promises but horrible realities."

"On the other hand, there is the tired and proved freedom road—the American way."

Sorensen said it was up to the people to decide which they wanted.

"Do we want to be free people—or slaves of the state?" Sorensen said. "This is our problem."

SOME MORE LIBERAL BUNK

The Omaha World-Herald Monday had this to say:

"Governor Peterson recently revealed that he had asked the state patrol to get up a list of suspected communists in Nebraska, and since that time, the governor has taken quite a shattering from the Lincoln papers. This appears to be the view that he is carrying with him, and is trying to blacken the characters of innocent people. This is typical 'liberal' bunk, of the left-not-turn-my-back-on-Alger Hiss variety. Actually the governor is simply doing his obvious duty. He is the man in charge of civil defense in Nebraska. If trouble comes with Russia, it will be his responsibility to prevent sabotage—such as blowing up the Missouri river bridges, or maybe the Lincoln water works. Very well, then, he ought to know in advance, if possible, the names of potential enemy agents. That is a matter of just plain, ordinary prudence."

We haven't had a chance to visit with Governor Val in recent days. It is always stimulating to talk with him. If it were not against the law to bet, we would wager a wooden nickel that he himself would be happy had his program of defense been projected differently.

We assume that The World-Herald has as much respect as this newspaper has for American tradition. Nothing is more basic to the defense of American institutions than the preservation of the legal safeguards with which every American generation has been clothed. The crowning glory of this country is that no citizen is adjudged guilty unless every legal safeguard to which he is entitled has been employed in his defense. That includes the right to be informed fully of the charges against him, the right to know who his accuser is, the right to face that accuser across the table and through legal representative, to cross-examine him.

The difference between a police state—the kind of governments with which America is in conflict—and America, is that the individual counts for nothing in the police state. The government can do no wrong. It is supreme, law unto itself, and the individual—man or woman—counts for nothing.

If this newspaper dissents from that view, then it is guilty of liberal bunk. But there are a great many Americans, millions of them, profoundly distrustful of the practices and procedures that have been a part of this long-drawn-out cold war with Russia and they dissent. They are not sympathetic to the evil, wicked designs of a communist nation. They detest the thing that Russia represents in this world today, which incidentally, in frenzy and hysteria, many good, honest men seem to want to repeat in America.

Undoubtedly there is a thin lunatic fringe, made up of crackpots, who think they see in Russia and Russian methods, something that contributes to the welfare of the Russian masses, but whenever we get to permitting the activities of a handful to mold the character of American life, then we have scrapped freedom. We have laws against sedition, and treason, and espionage, and sabotage, and if those laws are not adequate, then about the first thing we should do is to revise them. We have a powerful, efficient law-enforcement agency in the Federal Bureau of Investigation, which has done a perfectly magnificent job of protecting the safety and security of this country. We have other law-enforcement agencies, zealous and active. We have the courts, and back of all these weapons, we have a people, the overwhelming majority of whom revere and love their country. But this, it seems, is not enough. To it must be added additional precautions, and the procedures to be adopted invoke extraordinary steps.

Take a jigger or two of the stuff labelled "super-patriotism," and add a drop of hysteria, and the mixture is powerful stuff.

A Guest Editorial...

Dr. Frank A. Court... "Spiritual Mobilization"

Editor's note: This is the second of a series of guest editorials which will appear in The Lincoln Star. Dr. Court is pastor of St. Paul's Methodist Church, in Lincoln, and in the judgment of the editor, the topic he discusses is of prime national importance. For years, the institution of a town hall flourished in this country. It was the cradle of democracy. Through the medium of guest editorials, The Lincoln Star is sure that a rich contribution to thought will be made by those who so generously present their views.

Arnold Toynbee, the world's best-known historian, points out that three things have destroyed 21 civilizations which had fallen prey to modern civilization. He summarizes these factors as: fear, hate, and militarism. Are we today falling victims to each of these factors that destroyed the civilizations of yesterday?

Fear certainly stalks our nation. Who is free from the quick intake of breath when first he reads the morning headlines of military reverses, diplomatic dead-ends, and totalitarian threats to democratic freedom?

Hate is also rampant. There are more divisions, there is more name-calling, more witch-hunts in America today than at any other time in our history. The tragedy of our world is not only epitomized in an iron curtain but in the walls of division in our own nation.

Certainly one of the trends in our democracy which is both un-American (in the sense of the term) and un-democratic is increasing dependence upon militarily trained men as government policy-makers. This nation was set up as a civilian nation with no designs of imperialism. The military man was a policeman who was the servant of a civilian government. He did not determine when and where a fight or a war was to be held. He fought when and where the civilian government, through its congress, dictated. Can anyone today validly hold that in our present state of affairs this original purpose of the military in a democracy is being carried on? Eisenhower and MacArthur themselves have called attention to the discrepancy between the original purpose and present practice. When peace-time foreign policy is determined by professionally-trained military men, something has happened to democracy.

But there is an answer.

The answer to fear is faith. 1950 was not a total liability. England made surprising economic recoveries. With the aid of the Marshall plan France and Western Germany surpassed all expectations in economic recovery. Total war has not as yet broken out and in spite of the opposition of Russia the United Nations has been far from a failure.

Perhaps the greatest asset of 1950 is the awakening realization in the life of Americans that we do not need to be afraid in a world of tension and struggle. In any all-out war America, to be defeated, would have to be invaded and no country, or collection of nations, could invade our American shores. On the other hand there would be a fair chance for America to defeat the armies of any aggressor on the plains of Europe or Asia. Russia's total steel output is 25 million tons a year while the United States alone turns out 100 million tons. Our production per man-hour for labor with machine is infinitely greater than all of the rest of the world put together. Our factories might be bombed, but American know-how would find another way. Yet our real courage does not come through our military might, but in the knowledge that we are not aggressors, our cause is right, our motives are not imperialistic and our dream is still for world peace.

Yes, the great antidote for fear is faith. In countless numbers people are returning to the church, finding new faith in the Spirit of God and a renewal in the belief that life is worth while through the gift of religion. This nation, under God, is still invincible.

The answer to hate is Christian love. Hatred begets only more hatred. The only power that can conquer hatred is a love that is both forgiving and redeeming. One day at the height of the Civil War when feeling was bitterest, Abraham Lincoln, at a White House reception, dropped a kindly remark about the South. An elderly lady flared up at him and wanted to know how he could speak kindly of his enemies when he should

FAKE PICTURE MAY BECOME TEST CASE FOR DIRTY POLITICS

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Democratic senators came out of their first secret caucus of the new congressional session determined to fight back against unfair, below-the-belt political campaigning such as the fake photo featuring a chummy conversation between Senator Tydings and communist Earl Browder.

Senatorial backs were stiffened by Clint Anderson of New Mexico, who urged them to make a test issue of the Maryland senatorial campaign which defeated Tydings. While the same vicious type campaign had been waged in other states, Anderson said, only in Maryland was there direct evidence that the candidate himself, Republican John Butler, had participated.

"All you boys will be under this sort of attack if you don't do something about it," warned the New Mexico senator. Showing the senators the phony, composite picture of Tydings and Browder, Anderson continued:

"Now I have seen a picture of a very wonderful member of the United States senate who had Bikini and had gone bathing in the surf, very scantily attired. It would be a simple process to take his outstretched hand and place the hand of a lewd woman in his, against the backdrop of a South Sea isle. That's what this type of campaigning is coming to," Anderson argued.

Then he turned to Tom Connally of Texas and said: "You know, Senator Connally, the campaign is already on down in Texas to prove you are a communist coddler, because you didn't stand up against Dean Acheson."

Turning to Sen. Dick Russell of Georgia, he remarked: "In the Maryland campaign, Tydings was charged with the loss of American lives in Korea. In the future that sort of comment and criticism, no matter how unfair and unjust, will be heaped on Senator Russell who is taking Tydings' place as chairman of the armed services committee."

STAMPS: A Fascinating, Educational Hobby

By DON GILLEN

A BIG boost to Masonry has been made by a Lincoln collector.

F. T. Anderson, who works at the post office, about three years ago got an idea that he would get a stamp collection using as a subject "Masonry on Stamps." To him the idea seemed a good one.

From that beginning three years ago, Mr. Anderson has through diligent and extensive research built up a fine gathering of stamps connected with Masonry.

Having been a Mason himself for 27 years, and a past master of his home lodge in Spencer, Neb., Mr. Anderson had little difficulty in obtaining the information. But it does show that he took a good deal of time and energy in compiling the information.

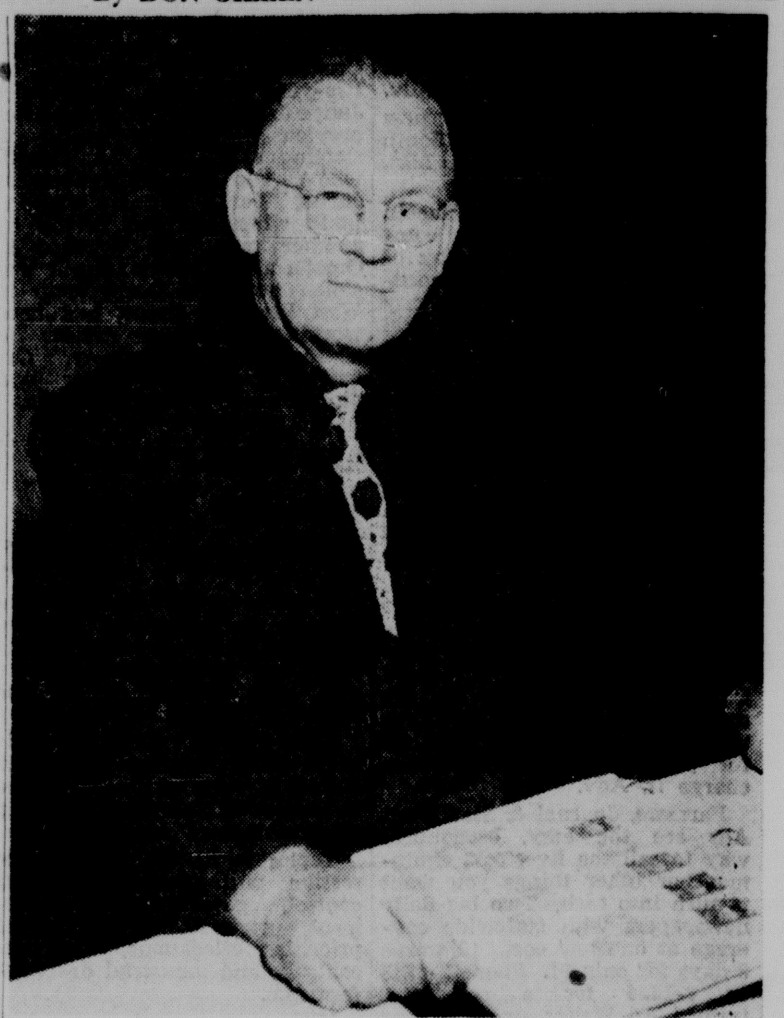

Of the several albums, his first is a historical summary of famous American Masons. Of course, this starts out with George Washington who was a member of the lodge in Frederick, West Va.

Mr. Anderson has been careful to mount only those stamps that have a real connection with Masonry. A friend of his, he said, has a collection that includes the bankers of America issue. And this is included because the founder of that organization was a Mason. But not so Mr. Anderson.

Some of his pages are gracefully decorated with the square and compass sign of the Masons. And he has uncovered some very interesting and unusual facts about Masonry on stamps.

For instance, he points out that of the 39 signers of the Constitution, 22 of them were Masons. And of the 56 signers of the Declaration of Independence, 31 were known Masons and several others were thought to be members of the order.

Names that ring flaming memories in the pages of history of America are also Masonic members. Gen. von Steuben, Casimir Pulaski, Tadeusz Kosciuszko, John Sullivan, George Rogers Clark, Rufus Putnam, Anthony Wayne, Ben Franklin, Henry Clay, Brigham Young (who was expelled by the Grand Lodge of Illinois in 1844), Charles Lindbergh, Richard E. Byrd, Will Rogers, Adm. George Dewey, Stonewall Jackson, Gen. Hap Arnold, Warren Harding, John Philip Sousa, Franklin Delano Roosevelt, Harry S. Truman. All these and hundreds of other famous Americans are Masons and are connected in some way with one of the United States stamp issues.

And glance at some of these foreigners: Cecil John Rhodes, King George VI of England, King William I of Netherlands, Johann Wolfgang von Goethe, King Oscar I of Sweden, King George II of Greece, Jean Sibelius of Finland, Manuel Quezon and Jose Rizal of the Philippines, Count Leo Tolstoy of Russia, Italy's Giuseppe Garibaldi and France's Voltaire.

One of Mr. Anderson's stamps is the two-cent Liberty Bell issue. Failing to see any connection with Masonry on this we asked Mr. Anderson about it.

"Well, you see it was cracked tolling the death of John Marshall, who was a prominent Mason."

Guess that was a good answer. Many of the stamps in Mr. Anderson's collection have long explanations written beside them, giving some indication of the amount of work required to mount and complete this collection. However, he still says there is a long way to go in completing it. But it probably will not be too long and Mr. Anderson will have his collection complete except for the task of keeping it up.

He is the type worker who puts most stamp collectors to shame. In a couple years Mr. Anderson has put a collection together that most collectors can't accomplish in the span of five times that many years.

Mr. Anderson had a collection in the early 1930s but gave it up after a couple years. For about 15 years he did nothing with stamps, although he worked in a place that was loaded with them—the post office.

Even though he has been collecting for about three years, he built a new house last year and he had hardly had time to look at the collection let alone add to it. But he still has managed to come forth with several new stamps.

So a toast to F. T. Anderson who has given Freemasonry and stamp collecting a big boost. A great Mason and a great stamp collector.

Washington Calling

NIAGARA OF WORDS POURS ABOUT AMERICAN DEFENSE

By MARQUIS CHILDS

WASHINGTON—So much of the talk is about defense. A Niagara of words has poured out on civil defense, with the emphasis on fitting industry and government into caves somewhere around Reno, Nev. Then there are the defenders of the Kennedy-Hoover school who seem to want to pull America into a kind of prairie-dog hole behind the dike Marquis Childs of the Atlantic and the Pacific.

This talk ignores the true strength of this great country. We have the greatest industrial and productive might the world has ever seen. Our productive plants, even without the enlargements now being carried out, are greater in their capacity than those of all the Iron-Curtain countries with much of the west outside America included.

The American people are workers and doers who have repeatedly proved their courage and resolution. On the other side of the Iron Curtain is a people enslaved by a neurotic and uncertain despotism.

The rapid yet orderly conversion of a part of America's industry to capacity to the production of weapons is the goal of military and civilian planners. This conversion has not proceeded fast enough since the communist attack in Korea at the end of June changed the time-table of probabilities.

But in view of the military cutbacks in 1948 and '49 it was retarded. The machinery for army procurement, for example, has been scaled down to such a low rate that expansion requires that new men be trained in new jobs.

Now there is a danger that pressure for "all-out mobilization" will upset the carefully calculated plans for military-industrial production. A wholesale call-up of national guard divisions, plus greatly increased use of the draft, would put large numbers of men in uniform with little equipment to train with and nothing to do with the units once they were trained.

What the planners fear is a repetition of 1940-41. Against his own judgment and in response to overwhelming pressure, General George C. Marshall, then chief of staff of the army, called up, on the average, three guard divisions a month. Stories about how boys were training with slave pipes instead of guns began to spread. As it became apparent that Great Britain would stand, the pressure built up in the opposite direction—to take the mobilized force apart again.

But it is in the inter-relationship between men in uniform and men on the assembly line that the problem calls for deliberate and skillful handling. Take, as an example, a watch company that also manufactures other civilian gadgets. "All-out mobilization" takes skilled men away from the bench and an all-out order forbidding copper for any civilian use compels a virtual shut-down of the plants.

Six months later, however, when procurement has advanced to a further stage, it is desired to REALLY POISON To the editor of the Lincoln Star: For those on the lower-income step who spend all their wages for necessities, a sales tax is really poison. To me it is a device aimed to put the poor "in their place" and keep them there.

OLD TIMER To the editor of the Lincoln Star: The first shot that the citizens get in the arm for more taxes and higher state expenses comes from some members of the budget committee. We get most of our government through the paid propagandists. They start the ball rolling through the press and radio, and it gains momentum until the people finally give up and the job is done. That's the way it works in Washington and it is hoped that it won't take root in this state. Every function in state government is being well taken care of, so why start propaganda for more funds? The people ought to have a rest long enough to catch up with the functions of state.

To the editor of the Lincoln Star: Citizens who apprehend that the people of this country will find intervention so agreeable a practice that it will become a habit with them have considerable encouragement, so far, to put aside their fears. As far as we have got, it has been poor sport and as a nation we have not liked it. There is plenty of determination to do our national duty, whatever it costs, but there is a notable dearth of gloominess at the prospect of doing it.

It is creditable to our common sense that there is so little enthusiasm at the prospect of soldiering and of having a big fight by land, air, or sea. The immense inconvenience of it, and the entire absence of prospective remuneration, except to the conscience, seems to be appreciated

Miss Grace Znamenacek, Bride Of Stanley Portsche, Sunday

The chancel of Trinity Lutheran church was screened with greenery before which were placed lighted white candles in pedestal candelabra, and spreading bouquets of white gladioli and yellow pompon chrysanthemums, for the marriage of Miss Grace A. Znamenacek, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Znamenacek of Crete, to Stanley Lee Portsche, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Portsche, on Sunday afternoon, January 7. In the presence of two hundred guests, the Rev. J. G. Jacobsen read the lines of the double ring ceremony at 4 o'clock.

The wedding music was played by Otto Sunderman, organist, who also accompanied Jack Anderson who sang "Because," and "The Lord's Prayer." Lighting the chancel candles were Miss Cindy Durham, frocked in pale green satin, and Miss Eunice Braasch, wearing a gown of American Beauty satin. Miss Durham and Miss Braasch carried white tapered ornaments with clusters of Johanna Hill roses.

Attending her sister as maid of honor was Miss Dorothy Znamenacek, and bridesmaid was Miss Jeanne Recker. The honor attendant, in ice blue, and Miss Recker, in gold, wore identical frocks of slipper satin designed with low, rounded necklines, framed by pleated collars of satin, fitted, sleeveless bodices, and full, gathered skirts. Their helmet caps were of matching satin, and they wore long mitts of satin in tones to match their frocks. Miss Znamenacek carried a colonial bouquet of Johanna Hill roses, and Miss Recker's bouquet was of Talisman roses. Frocked in a floor-length gown of white satin was the flower girl, Miss Janet Portsche, niece of the bridegroom.

The bride chose for her wedding a period gown of white Chantilly lace. A deep band of seed pearls patterned the high, rounded neckline of the torso bodice, which ended in an Elizabethan point at the front waistline, and the seed pearl motif was repeated at the wrists of the long, fitted sleeves. The circular skirt was caught into fullness beneath a modified peplum and tapered into a long train, and her veil of silk illusion was held by a cap of lace over satin trimmed with seed pearls in the leaf design at either side of the head. She carried an Empire bouquet of crimson roses tied with white satin.

Serving Mr. Portsche as best man was James Barker, and the ushers were Leonard Durham and Jerry Dosek both of Lincoln, and Charles Aggar of Fremont. Stanley Portsche, nephew of the bridegroom, was ringbearer.

For the reception, which was held in the church parlors following the ceremony, a tiered white wedding cake encircled with red roses, and tall white tapered in silver candelabra, formed the centerpiece for the bridal table. Assisting at the reception were Mrs. Gertrude May, Mrs. Ruth Portsche, Miss Jeanette Spealman, Miss Delphine Thomas, Miss Marcella Kahler, Miss Betty Recker, Miss Carolyn Larsen and Mrs. Rose Wolfe.

Mr. and Mrs. Portsche will reside at 1435 C street upon their return from a wedding trip to Kansas City, Mo. The bride wore for traveling a tailored ensemble of wool in the melon shade with black velvet accessories.

A former student of Doane college, Crete, Mrs. Portsche is a member of Nu Phi Mu business girls sorority. Mr. Portsche is a graduate of the University of Nebraska college of business administration and is a member of Delta Tau Delta fraternity.

Good Morning

EVEN THE 'PHONE BOOK Has It's Women's Section

Probably no one in his right mind would consider the telephone book a source of entertainment—but just to prove that the directory which usually accompanies Alexander Graham Bell's handy little gadget also has a woman's section, turn to the Lincoln Street section—There you will discover that twenty-six streets are named for girls—We'll wager that you didn't know that there was an Anna street, for instance—or an Ann—a Yolande street, or a Juliet, or a Helen—Those are just a few—Here is the list:

Lillian street, Laura, Jeannette, Josephine, Juliet, Helen, Hazel, Maude, Victoria, Theresa, Sylvia, Rebecca, Portia, Grace, Abbie, Ann, Anna, Cecelia, Lynn, Meredith, Viola, Virginia, Rosalin, Roselyn, Eleanor, Yolande.

Then we wondered how many boys' names had been used, and we found these:

Warren, Thurston, Searle, Scott, Knox, Lewis, Sherman, William, Norman, Nelson, Morgan, Irving, Kent, Martin, Laurence, Earl, Douglas, Arthur, Everett and Francis.

Names of famous men aren't quite so unusual in a street directory—but we went through the list anyway and found:

Pershing, Lincoln, Marshall, Madison, Lowell, Hawthorne, Harrison, Jackson, Whittier,

Rosemary Sitzman, Bride Of Harold Allison Stewart

MRS. HAROLD ALLISON STEWART

Pedestal arrangements of white gladioli and greenery, and lighted cathedral candles appointed the chancel of St. Paul Evangelical Reformed church, Saturday evening, January 6, for the marriage of Miss Rosemary Sitzman, daughter of Mrs. Rose Sitzman and John Sitzman, to Harold Allison Stewart, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. Raymond Stewart of Pawnee City. The lines of the 8 o'clock ceremony were read by the Rev. Arthur G. Crisp.

Lighting the tall cathedral candles which marked the processional aisle were Miss Kathleen Schreiber and Miss Virginia Byers, wearing white satin choir robes, and the wedding music was played by Mrs. Henry Sengstake, organist. As the two hundred guests assembled, Mrs. Sengstake accompanied Helmut Sienknecht who sang "Wedding Prayer," "Dunlap," "I Love Thee," "Bee-thoven," and Malotte's "The Lord's Prayer."

Mrs. Alan W. Burgess attended her sister as matron of honor and wore a period gown of gold-toned slipper satin. A wide, off-shoulder collar of double bands of satin framed the fitted bodice and formed the brief cap sleeves, and the skirt was shirred into extreme fullness. She carried an arm bouquet of tinted pompon chrysanthemums in the peacock blue shade. Frocked identically in peacock blue satin were the bridesmaids, Mrs. John G. Sitzman of Lincoln, and Mrs. James Robinson of Pawnee City, sister of the bridegroom. Their colonial bouquets were fashioned of gold-toned pompons. The three attendants completed their costumes with halo brims and long mitts of satin in shades to match their frocks.

Clifford Heujum of Sioux Falls, S. D., was best man, and seating the guests were Edward J. Maser, and Alan W. Burgess of Lincoln. Charles Marvin Roberts, II, was ring-bearer.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her brother, John G. Sitzman, who gave her in marriage. For her wedding, she wore a gown of white satin and imported French lace. The lace fashioned the high, rounded yoke which was outlined in shallow scallops by the white satin of the molded bodice, and long sleeves tapered to points over the hands. The scallop motif was repeated in the wide side-panels of lace which trimmed the full-gathered satin skirt, and continued the length of the cathedral train, and a small bonnet of satin ornamented with clusters of seed pearls held her veil of English illusion. She carried a white Bible marked with a white orchid.

A reception was held in the church parlors immediately following the ceremony, and included among those assisting were Mrs. Harold R. Young, jr., Miss Dorothea Ehrenhard, Miss Suzanne Rumpeltes, Miss Dorothy Kurth, Miss Donna Colhapp, Miss Joy Ann Unger, Mrs. Edward J. Maser, Mrs. C. Marvin Roberts, all of Lincoln, Mrs. J. W. Davis and Mrs. Ernest C. Mappes of Omaha, Mrs. A. J. Maser of Sioux City, Iowa, and Miss Mary Moore of Lincoln.

Mr. and Mrs. Stewart left for a short wedding trip after which they will reside at 200 Craven Rd., Beaufort, N. C., where the bridegroom is stationed with the marine corps. The bride wore for traveling a wool suit of blue and gray check with black velvet accessories.

Mrs. Stewart is a former student of Nebraska Wesleyan university, and the bridegroom has attended the University of Nebraska.

THUMBING THROUGH our little red book in the early dawn, we discovered a wagon load of activity—for this reason—and that—Some of it has to do with farewell courtesies—and some are "Hello, we're glad-to-see-you" affairs—Anyway, they're all fun—And, plus the parties, we have a variety of other news—So here we go—off to a flying start for the morning.

OUR POPULAR COUPLE, for whom the farewell courtesies have been planned, are Dr. and Mrs. H. H. Zinneman who, with their daughter, Dorothy, leave soon for probably a two-year stay in Minneapolis where Dr. Zinneman will do post-graduate work in medicine—He will be, so we are told, at the University hospital—

The parties began last Saturday evening when Dr. and Mrs. Forrest Rose were host and hostess at dinner at their home with, of course, the Zinnemans as an incentive—Twelve guests were invited for the dinner and an informal evening.

ON SUNDAY MORNING Dr. and Mrs. George Covey complimented Dr. and Mrs. Zinneman at breakfast at their home, and on Sunday evening Dr. and Mrs. Jerome Ritter invited a group of guests for hors d'oeuvres at their home, preceding dinner at Hotel Cornhusker's Continental buffet.

But before we go on with future parties for the Zinnemans—we'd better amend our statement that their courtesies began on Saturday evening—The series got off to a start on Friday evening when

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Swingle entertained at a family dinner at their home.

NOW WE ARE ALL CAUGHT up—until Tuesday evening, when Dr. and Mrs. Paul Kiser will be host and hostess at dinner when they entertain a small group of guests at their home.

On Thursday's calendar is the small dinner party for which Dr. and Mrs. B. L. Hooper will be host and hostess when they entertain at the University club. Places will be arranged for seven, and included in the guest list will be Miss Dorothy Zinneman.

SO MUCH FOR OUR FAREWELLS—for the moment—and on to our guests—Arriving late Monday evening were Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Johnson of Fargo, N. D., who are stopping off in Lincoln, en route to their home from a trip through Texas and the southern states, to spend a few days as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Stone.

THIS EVENING (TUESDAY) Mr. and Mrs. James Stone will preside at a dinner at their home, honoring Mr. and Mrs. Johnson, and on Wednesday Dr. and Mrs. George Covey will be host and hostess at luncheon at the University club, honoring the visitors.

THEN COMES THURSDAY morning and a 10 o'clock coffee for which Mrs. Jack Stone will be hostess at her home, with Mrs. Johnson as the honoree.

ONE OF TUESDAY'S ARRIVALS will be Miss Mildred Collins who comes from the national headquarters of the Association of Junior Leagues of America, New York City, where she is consultant on radio and television. Miss Collins will speak at a special meet of the Lincoln Junior League on Wednesday afternoon.

ALSO ON THE GUEST list this week is Mrs. Marvin Schmid of Omaha, district president of Kappa Alpha Theta sorority, who arrived Monday evening to spend a few days visiting the active chapter on the Nebraska campus.

DID CONSIDERABLE visiting on the telephone—doing our homework—and found that Mr. and Mrs. Ben Joyce were to be a dinner host and hostess Tuesday evening at the University club. Dinner places will be arranged for eight, and following the dinner the group will go to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joyce for an evening of bridge.

FOUND A PRE-OKLAHOMA dinner party, too, for Tuesday evening—Learned that Mr. and Mrs. Don Harrington were host and hostessing Dr. and Mrs. Donald Purvis, and Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Swenson, at dinner at the University club preceding the show.

AND THAT REMINDS US of other news of the Harringtons—Next week-end Mr. and Mrs. Harrington will go to Wichita, Kans., and will scarcely be home again before they take off for Washington D.C.—a combined business and pleasure trip—with the usual blueprint—business for Mr. Harrington, pleasure for Mrs. Harrington.

OFF THE COMING WEEK-END—also for Wichita—will be Mrs. Richard Foreman and her son, Ricky—Mrs. Foreman and her son go to join Mr. Foreman in Wichita where the family will reside.

SOMEONE TOLD US THAT Mr. and Mrs. William Avon Fraser left the past week-end for St. Petersburg, Fla., where they will have a two weeks holiday—

AND BACK IN TOWN again are Coach and Mrs. William Glassford who had been vacationing on the west coast—Mr. and Mrs. Glassford went first to Los Angeles to attend the dinner for which the Los Angeles Times was host, and at which Bobby Reynolds was an honored guest—Then, a little farther up the coast to see the East-West game.

THE SUGAR BOWL GAME took Mr. and Mrs. George Swingle to New Orleans shortly after Christmas—And after a few days in New Orleans Mr. and Mrs. Swingle drove to Dallas, and returned home by way of various points in Arizona—Incidentally Mr. and Mrs. Swingle, who returned home last Saturday, spent a night in Shreveport, La., where they saw Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gardner.

HEARD THAT MR. AND MRS. W. Dale Anderson of Storm Lake, Ia., were coming to Lincoln this week—Business brings them to town, but there will be plenty of opportunity for a visit with Mrs. Anderson's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Harold P. Stebbins.

PAST SUNDAY FOUND Miss Shirley Baker en route to her home in Shenandoah, Ia., after a visit with her grandmother, Mrs. James D. Baker in Lincoln—Miss Baker, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Baker of Shenandoah, former University of Nebraska students, attends MacMurray college, Jacksonville, Ill.

HAD A PREVIEW OF THE coming week-end and learned that Mr. and Mrs. Craig O'Brien will be host and hostess at their home Saturday evening, honoring Willard W. Folsom, who has been re-activated in the service, and Mrs. Folsom. The affair is a covered dish dinner, and the group of seventeen includes Mr. Folsom's card club and their wives.

THE PEGLERS—Mr. and Mrs. Donald, Jr., are counting the days until spring and their new home at 2632—or maybe 2634 Williams street, is completed.

AND LOOKING into next week—we find that the membership committee of the Nebraska Art association, will be the guests of the committee's chairman, Mrs. Frank Boehmer, on next Tuesday. Duard Laging will speak to the group on the plans for the coming Nebraska Art association exhibit (Sunday, March 4-Sunday, April 1), and a brief history of the association will be presented by Mrs. C. F. Ladd.

Presiding at the tea table during the afternoon will be Mrs. Ladd and Mrs. I. G. Chapin.

Viewmen See Revenge Against Tutors Tonight

College View Must Collar High-Scoring Stars To Win

BY BOB DECKER
(Star Sports Staff Member)

COLLEGE View, hoping to snap a two game losing streak, will end their two game series with Teachers Tuesday night at the University of Nebraska Coliseum when they tackle the favored Teachers high team.

Teachers, who beat the Viewmen once earlier this year, 52-35, are riding a three game winning streak while College View has been on the short end of the score in their last two encounters. Teachers is naturally the favorite in this tussle.

But as Coach Dale Snook says, "College View has the type of ball club that can be tough and if we want to come out on top we'll have to watch their fast break and also that boy Leslie."

LYONS REPLACED

Coach Short indicated a change in the lineup. James Carlson, a sophomore, will replace Gary Lyons at one of the forward positions, while dependable Bob Leslie will remain at the other forward. Clyde Cook will return to his guard position and Van Cleave will be shifted back to his post position. Stan Muggy will be the other guard teaming with Cook.

Bad news hit the Teachers squad Monday as it was learned that Eldon Carmine is sidelined with a bad ankle and Coach Snook says there is very little chance that he will see action.

Bart Wilson will replace the injured Carmine at guard. Ron Hoffman will start at the other guard; Stan Matzke and Mike Stubbs, forwards; and Ben Meckel will man the key slot.

Gate City Would Retain NCAA Baseball Tourney

OMAHA—(AP)—The National Collegiate Athletic association, holding its 1951 baseball tournament in Omaha.

The tournament was held here last year.

E. F. Pettis, chairman of the Omaha committee for the college baseball world series, said the NCAA invitation would go to K. L. (Tug) Wilson, secretary-treasurer of the association.

Pettis said Omaha would like to have the tourney as a permanent fixture making it to college baseball what the Rose Bowl is to college football.

OPPONENTS TONIGHT—Ernie Dusek (left) and Mike DiBiase will be on the opposite side of the fence tonight in a tag wrestle at the fairgrounds.

DiBiase-McIntyre Team Meets Emil, Ernie Dusek

... FAIRGROUNDS ARENA TONIGHT

A tag match, pitting Emil and Ernie Dusek against Mike DiBiase and Bill McIntyre, is the fairgrounds feature tonight.

In a preliminary match, Richard Dusek faces Bad Boy Brown.

Stanley Daly, son of Owen, former world's middle-weight champion, will be referee.

Promoter Adam Krieger has ordered special police protection to take care of the Duseks, Omaha roughies who have a standing feud with DiBiase and McIntyre.

McIntyre, ex-Missouri footballer, made a big hit with fairgrounds fans last Tuesday. He's red-headed and well-tempered. DiBiase is the ex-Husker gridder.

Daly replaces Sam Vacanti, unable to referee because of previous commitments.

Illinois Stays On Top, Beat Iowa 72-69

IOWA CITY, Ia.—(AP)—Illinois stalled out the last 4½ minutes to defeat Iowa 72-69 Monday night and stay on top of the Big Ten conference basketball standings.

The win gave the Illini a record of three conference wins and no defeats. It was Iowa's first loss in two conference games.

The contest, before 13,732 fans, was a rough one, with 53 personal fouls being called.

Iowa jumped off to an early 10-4 lead but the Illini quickly got back into the game largely on the work of Sophomore Center Bob Peterson. The lead changed hands seven times before the Illini moved out to a 38-30 halftime margin.

Wisconsin Edges Michigan State

EAST LANSING, Mich.—(AP)—Wisconsin won a hectic Western conference basketball game here Monday night by edging Michigan State 53-52 on a free throw in the last eight seconds of play.

The Spartans' center, Bob Carey, was fouled in the scramble after the free shot and had a chance to tie things up with a similar gift throw after the game was officially over. But he missed.

In the freshman preliminary game last night the Reds worked over the Greens by the score of 43-23. It was a wild, rough game with many fouls not called by the officials.

High-point man was Segar of the Reds with 12, followed by Exstrom, who had seven. High man for the losers was Mallette with only six.

Quite A Legend Is Ol' Jawn

PROFESSOR Adam Krieger, impresario of mayhem at the fairgrounds wrestle arena, issued a surprising statement the other day.

"Very few people know this," said the professor, "but I am one of the most educated men in town."

We pressed for particulars.

"I have gone through the University of Nebraska at least a thousand times," he amplified.

We pressed for more particulars.

It seems the good professor used to reside north of the campus. To head down town, his path would take him through the campus.

Professor Krieger had another startling bit of news: Ol' Jawn Pesek, he said, might soon put in a fairgrounds appearance.

While Son Jack has been a big box office draw in the Columbus, Ohio, area in recent months, Ol' Jawn has stayed home on the big Pesek farm at Ravenna. He is busy feeding a large herd of cattle.

There are few trips more interesting than a visit to the Pesek menage.

Ol' Jawn has a prankish side. Once Jim Londos, another of wrestling's immortals, was a guest at the Pesek farm.

First, Ol' Jawn scared the wits out of Jim. One night he put a white sheet over him and came tearing at Jim, who was heading for the al fresco plumbing.

Then he took Jim hunting in a car he had purchased the same morning.

On the way back, Ol' Jawn was driving with the shotgun between his knees. Purposely, Ol' Jawn flicked the trigger sending both barrels through the roof. They say Londos has never been the same since.

THERE used to be a familiar sight when Ol' Jawn's six kids were smaller. As a conditioner, he used to harness himself to various farm implements, load it up with the kids and tug around the yard.

Despite his catlike grace, supple and pliable muscles, Ol' Jawn's strength is prodigious. He used to let Model T's run over him. He can still bend a horseshoe straight.

He'll tell you that his toughest opponent was Joe Stecher. They met twice, each winning once. Joe had tremendously powerful legs and used them to defeat Ol' Jawn.

There is nothing that Pesek, the family man, won't do for his kids. Once, one of the youngsters mentioned that he wished there was a lake on the farm.

Know what Ol' Jawn did? He summoned a fleet of bulldozers and manufactured a lake right in the middle of a pasture.

WHEN Husker Jack was in knee pants, he was a destructive little cuss. His weapon was usually a hammer.

One of Ol' Jawn's guests was unhappily surprised when he started home. There was little Jack, hammer in hand, knocking out the front lights of the guest's new Cadillac. He had already beaten out all of the windows.

There was heavy activity in the woodshed that night. Ol' Jawn wants his kids to be well-behaved.

Even at age 55 with some 5,000 matches behind him, the old warrior still is nervous before a match. He gets an exaggerated idea of the toughness of his opponent.

His next-to-youngest son, Mickey, age 15, is an all-round athlete at Ravenna high. Little Steve, baby of the family, is active in junior high athletics.

Some of Ol' Jawn's notes to Principal Keith Cottrell of Ravenna high are classics. As example:

"Mickey was not at school today because he did not feel like going to school. Anyway, he had work to do on the farm."

McMillen, K-State Directors Confer

... BO DECLINES COMMENT

MANHATTAN, Kas.—(AP)—A. N. (Bo) McMillen met with the Kansas State college athletic council this afternoon, then told the newsmen there was nothing definite he could say about whether he might become director of athletics at the college.

McMillen said he "would be interested in the job if Kansas State wants him, but that it probably would take about 10 days for him to make up his mind."

McMillen said he would like to keep on coaching, and the ability to do so might be a determining factor in his future.

While he was talking to newsmen in his hotel room, McMillen received a long distance telephone call from George Marshall, owner of the Washington Redskins, profession football club.

They talked for 20 minutes.

When the call was completed, McMillen was asked if Marshall had offered him a coaching job.

"You'll have to talk to him about that," McMillen replied.

McMillen recently resigned as coach of the Detroit Lions pro club. Formerly he had coached at Indiana university after coaching at Kansas State from 1928-1933.

Mangrum Edges Ransom Four-Under-Par Round Wins Los Angeles Open

LOS ANGELES—(INS)—Lloyd Mangrum, staging as heroic a comeback as he did when he won the 1946 National open, edged past handsome Henry Ransom Monday to win the $15,000 Los Angeles Open golf tournament by a stroke.

Mangrum fashioned a four-under-par 67 in the final round for an aggregate 280—four under par for the 72 holes over the rugged Riviera country club course. Ransom had a 281.

"Slammin' Sammy" Sneer, playing in despite a broken bone in his left hand, lasted out the final round to take third place with a one-over-par 285.

Ellsworth Vines, Los Angeles; Dr. Cary Middlecoff of Memphis, and young Doug Ford of Briarcliffe, N. Y., tied for fourth place with 228s, followed by Jimmy Clark of Laguna Beach, Cal., with a 289 for fifth.

Bunched at 290 were Skeie Riegel, Tulsa, Okla., and Leland Gibson, Kansas City, Mo.

MISSES ARE

Mangrum, who won $2,600 for his garrison finish, began his assault on par by carding a birdie on the first hole. He then thrilled the huge crowd of 8,000 by poling his drive on the short, par three sixth hole against the pin. The ball was held from going in for a hole in one by the pin itself.

Mangrum easily pushed it in for another birdie. He almost had another birdie on No. 8, just missing a 44-foot putt that rolled into the cup and out. On the ninth he got his third birdie of the outgoing side by dropping a seven-footer.

When Mangrum made the turn in three-under-par 32 he was still two strokes behind Ransom who was playing conservative par golf. When the final round began Ransom held a fat five-stroke lead over Mangrum and was four strokes ahead of tourney favorite, Sammy Snead.

Ford and Middlecoff were but three strokes behind Ransom but both blew up when Mangrum turned on the heat.

DAVID CITY, Neb.—It began to look this week as though history might repeat itself this year in the Central Eight Conference as Coach Bud Best's Albion crew opened its conference firing with a 25-23 victory over Aurora Friday.

It was a familiar sight last year to see York and Albion perching on the top two rungs of the Central Eight Conference ladder. Both teams were undefeated in conference competition and finished by sharing the title. Albion, however, gained the nod at the state tournament over York.

Alma Appears Likely Winner In Harlan Reservoir Road Construction

Over 1,000 To Holdrege For Hearing

Decision Should Come By Wednesday

By Homer Fine
(Farm Editor, The Star)

HOLDREGE, Neb.—Alma residents waged an all-out battle here Monday night, fighting "for the life of their community" and appeared to be waving the victory flag.

The push came during the hearing on the proposed Harlan dam reservoir road, already approved by the army engineers.

Well over 1,000 persons converged upon his city Monday, jamming the auditorium with standing room only.

Governor Val Peterson, who called the hearing after protests arose over army engineers' plans for the proposed $1,700,000 road south of Alma, presided at Monday's get-together.

Alma residents, fighting to retain present engineer plans, are battling with Orleans and Republican City, whose citizens claim the project is too expensive and have proposed alternate routes favoring their communities.

D. A. Russell, Alma attorney and spokesman for his town, pointed out to the crowd attending the hearing the need for retaining the road plan which carries Highway 188-383 straight south of Alma. He stated that the town has already lost fertile valley south of Alma, used for the reservoir itself besides losing a packing plant and elevator.

Old Grudge Revived.

Should the plans be changed the loss in property value would be three or four times the cost of the crossing, Russell declared. Observers said the fight between Alma and Orleans stems from the old Harlan county courthouse battle. In 1874 the county courthouse stood at Melrose, site of the present town of Orleans. Later the county seat was changed to Alma. In 1881 the Supreme court validated that change, but the old grudge still exists.

The hearing, which began at 2 p. m. Monday, was adjourned at 5:30 p. m. and called to order again at 7:30 p. m.

Colonel L. J. Lincoln, Kansas City district engineer for the army corps of engineers, declared Monday that this hearing is not a unique experience for the engineers. Public hearings on this project were held about 10 years ago, he said.

"At that time the matter of the road crossing was on the plans, but never controversial to my knowledge," Colonel Lincoln stated.

He claimed that the Alma road would be flooded at the most about two weeks out of 10 or 15 years.

The engineers' plans would provide a route straight south of Alma into Kansas. The highway, No. 183-383, joins Highway 6 and 34 at Holdrege.

"The project is within the limits of economy for highway travel involved and fulfills duties of the federal government in re-routing travel disrupted by the reservoir," Colonel Lincoln added.

He declared that the bridge to cross the reservoir will be big enough for boats ten feet high to pass under.

"Improvements beyond the present plans which have been already approved by the chief engineer will be uneconomical

A GOOD WHITEFACE COW—and friends

Whose Cow Has A Record Like This?

The Albin Stonebergs of Davey, Neb., own a 6-year-old cow called "Cow." In five years "Cow" has had nine calves.

With "Cow" in the picture are her latest pair of twins, both girls.

But twins are nothing new to "Cow." Before the twin heifers arrived last spring, "Cow" gave birth to three sets of twin bulls, then a single bull calf, making a total of nine youngsters in five years.

In addition to all this, the Stonebergs, who also raised "Cow" on their farm near Davey, say the animal is also a "pretty good milker."

Now, does anyone have a cow that can beat this record?

Gen. Sturgis Leaving Omaha

Transferred To Fort Leonard Wood

CHICAGO — (AP) — The Fifth army announced Tuesday that Brig. Gen. Samuel D. Sturgis has been assigned commander of an armored division at Leonard Wood, Mo.

He will be replaced as division engineer by the army's Missouri division at Omaha, Neb., by Brig. Gen. G. Shingler, division engineer for the upper Mississippi valley at St. Louis, Mo.

Col. Beberly C. Snow, district engineer for the St. Louis division, will replace Gen. Shingler. Gen. Sturgis was appointed to the Missouri river division post in March, 1949, after Maj. Gen. Lewis A. Pick was elevated to chief of army engineers.

Gen. Pick was co-author of the Pick-Sloan plan for Missouri basin development.

The new change of division chiefs is scheduled to take place about Feb. 1.

John Green of Sargent, vice president of Highway 183 association, declared, "We don't want any more kinks in Highway 183."

Holdrege, Phillipsburg, Kas., Alma, Republican City, Orleans, Harlan county board of supervisors, state highway department, army corps of engineers, and the governor were represented at the meeting.

Wesley Hamilton of Consumers Co-op at Phillipsburg said his community wanted to go on record that everyone there favors a direct route to Alma.

Resolution To Governor

A resolution received by the governor was signed by 115 farmers south of Alma indicating that they want the proposed road built.

Fred Klietsch, state engineer, told the group the highway department felt the road would be justified in relation to the traffic which was about 800 vehicles every 24 hours in 1950 along Highway 183-383. He declared that damage to Alma would be minimized by replacing the road south of Alma.

"Maintenance costs would be reasonable and in line with economic gains," Klietsch stated.

Reeves Remembers Everything Except Inspecting Weapon

POLK, Neb.—(AP) — Jim Reeves, 76, still remembers the soldier's manual of arms—except possibility the part about inspecting the weapon.

Reeves was executing a snappy drill for Godfrey Lindahl in Reeves hotel apartment when it happened. He marched across the room, bellowed "attention" and brought the weapon down sharply. Both barrels discharged.

Tenants upstairs were frightened, but unhurt.

Lester Thomas Charged With 2 Burglaries

... In Omaha

OMAHA — (AP) — Lester Thomas, 38, of Lincoln, who escaped Christmas eve from a Saunders county deputy sheriff and who was arrested while crouching behind an Omaha bar Friday morning, has been charged with two Omaha burglaries, according to Deputy County Attorney Patrick Corrigan.

Corrigan said Thomas, who has been questioned in connection with three southwest Iowa burglaries and a Council Bluffs slaying, had agreed to go direct to District court on the burglary charge. The complaint charges him with burglary of the Sweetwood bar and Rainbow tavern.

Identified By Iowans.

Detective Inspector Harry Green said two Missouri Valley, Ia., men had "positively identified" Thomas as the man who forced him at gunpoint Dec. 26 to drive to Council Bluffs. Green added, "This identifies him as the man who burglarized the Missouri Valley Boodle club that night of $180."

Arthur Thompson and Martin Herriag of Missouri Valley, Ia., came to Omaha to identify Thomas as the man who confronted them with a gun when they went to the Missouri Valley club at 2 a. m. to visit their friend, the club operator. They said he compelled them to drive him to Council Bluffs, where he fled.

Seward Plant Workers Back At Their Jobs

(Special To The Star)

SEWARD, Neb. — Well over 200 workers were going to work Tuesday morning at the Hughes Brothers plant here, as work was resumed after a month-long strike.

Plant Manager Ross Gillan said about 80 of the ex-strikers worked Monday for the first time, in addition to 130 persons who worked through the strike.

It will take the Hughes plant three or four days to get up full production, Gillan said. At peak production the company employs about 350 persons.

Some of the ex-strikers may not get back to work for some time, the manager stated, because of the people hired during the strike.

The company has stopped hiring any new employees and will take back the workers as others resign, he said.

The strike was settled over the week end, with a 15-cent-per-hour raise and increased vacation pay for the workers. Originally the union asked 35 cents an hour, six paid holidays, increased vacation pay and a hospital plan.

Value Your Health More Than Riches

Some folks think that fine clothes and fine, big houses are the most important things in life, but these things really don't mean too much if a person doesn't feel well enough to enjoy them. Most folks don't realize this, but Mrs. Lucy Braswell, of Route 2, Stone Mountain, Ga., realizes it very well. Mrs. Braswell takes HADACOL, and by taking HADACOL she found she is helping her system overcome deficiencies of Vitamins B1, B2, Niacin and Iron, which HADACOL contains.

Here is Mrs. Braswell's own statement: "I have been sick for some time with stomach disturbances. I began taking HADACOL and I have been taking it about six weeks. I am so much better and much stronger. I will continue to take HADACOL. It sure has helped me. I tell my friends about HADACOL. I can't praise HADACOL too much. I am 59 years old."

Child-Care Criticism Gets Mixed Reaction

Mrs. Prince, Member Board Control, Agrees With Sen. Bridenbaugh's Plan

Reaction varied slightly Monday over Sen. Hal Bridenbaugh's statement that the state's present system of "farming out" children is "economically unsound" and an "injustice to the child."

"Generally speaking, I agree with Senator Bridenbaugh," said Mrs. Mary Prince, vice-chairman of the board of control.

Neil Vandemoer, director of the state assistance and child welfare department, said he did not know what the "injustice" is to which Bridenbaugh referred.

"No 'Mal-Treatment'"

He said he did not know of any "mal-treatment" to any children in foster home placements. The board of control has charge of the placements of state wards and, by law, has delegated its authority to the foster care unit, under the state assistance and child welfare department.

Bridenbaugh also urged that the Nebraska Home for Children be retained. Mrs. Prince stoutly backed up Bridenbaugh on this. Vandemoer said "don't abolish home, where no payment is made and the child works for his home; free home, where the child is given board and lodging and care and has an opportunity to live in a home.

"Great Danger"

Mrs. Prince said she saw "great danger" in the generality that a home is better than an institution.

She said that although the state has had some "excellent boarding home placements," I can cite cases of lamentable conditions arising from such placements.

"To give proper surveillance of all boarding homes, there must be a corps of investigators who make repeated checks," she said. Only through this guarded system can boarding home placements be considered safe.

"Home More Natural"

"In the final analysis, of course, a good home is a more natural setting for the development of a child.

"However, the value that I place on the welfare of every child . . . moves me to question a large scale boarding home placement program."

"Presupposing that a home is one marked by high ideals and standards, I will agree that a home provide better care than an institution, but to provide a safeguard—and insurance—that all of our homes are of this caliber, there must be large staff (of investigators) and repeated checks. Such a staff we do not have."

Loyalty Oath Bill Again In Hopper

Committee Work Is Assigned At Session By ARCH DONOVAN (Star Staff Writer)

In a humdrum session of the legislature Monday, introduction of bills and getting measures assigned to committees was about the only work that could be accomplished.

Sen. Dwight Burney of Hartington introduced the first of a series of bills he plans to offer for the welfare of children. It provides for reciprocal enforcement of support. It is aimed at deserting husbands and fathers who go to other states and cost of their return is prohibitive.

Sen. W. J. Williams of Ravenna, who two years ago introduced a bill requiring loyalty oaths by teachers, again introduced a trio of bills to the same effect. One would require the oath by college and university faculty members, another applies to public school teachers and the third to state and county officials.

At the last session the bill was killed in committee.

Abolish Merit System

Two proposals recommended by a legislative council sub-committee were also introduced by Sen. Williams. One would abolish the state merit system. The other provides for a 40 hour work week for state employees with two weeks paid vacation and 11 full working days of sick leave.

Senators Lillibridge of Crete and Otto Prohs of Scotts Bluff county joined in introducing the two bills. Williams is alone in sponsoring the loyalty oath.

Sen. Sam Klaver of Omaha introduced a bill to raise the ceiling on old age assistance from $55 to $65 a month. Two years ago the ceiling was raised from $50 to $55.

Neil Vandemoer, director of assistance, estimates that his budget will have to be increased about $750,000 if the increase is granted. He explained that the figure is only an estimate, as no study has been made on the effect of the ceiling increase.

Sen. John McKnight of Auburn put in a bill that would require all state agencies to deposit money collected with the state treasurer within 48 hours. He also introduced bills correcting present laws.

Condition Of Tecumseh Girl Is 'Critical'

One Of Four Hurt In Beatrice Crash

(Special To The Star)

BEATRICE, Neb. — Three of the four persons injured in a road crash near here late Sunday night remained in serious condition Monday.

Marilyn Sekman, 17-year-old Tecumseh resident, the most critical of the injured, had not regained consciousness 18 hours after the accident. Her injuries included a fractured skull, fractured jaw and chest injuries.

William Moser, 18, Beatrice, was transferred to an Omaha hospital Monday from a hospital here. His injuries included a fractured spine and paralysis of both legs.

Sheriff E. G. Maxwell, who investigated, said Merle Clancy, 21, Beatrice, was believed driver of the car involved. His condition Monday was listed as "fair."

Worst Smashup Ever Seen.

Clancy's sister, Marie, 21, was in "good" condition after being treated for abrasions on her back, shock and exposure.

Maxwell said the car left the road 12 miles north of Beatrice on Highway 77. He said it was one of the worst smashups he had ever seen.

Warning Given Of 'Analysts' Of Insurance

Nebraskans Tuesday were on the look-out for so-called "insurance policy analysts" after a warning from State Insurance Director Bernard Stone.

These analysts, Stone said, offer to analyze insurance policies—for a fee—and tell, among other things, whether the policy is sound.

These fees, however, are not the analysts' main source of income. They also offer to "get your money back" on "unsound" policies for a percentage of the money involved. But oftentimes it is not to the advantage of the policy holder to cash in his policy, Stone said.

Circulars offering to analyze policies have been distributed "quite extensively" over the state recently, Stone said.

Stone said if there are questions about a policy, the party should go to his local agent and if further information is desired to contact his office.

The state insurance director also warned against buying policies not licensed in the state and over which the insurance department has no jurisdiction.
